EASTERN MONTANA GOAL DEPOSITS AND STRIP MINING

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, eastern Montana has a very rich and underdeveloped resource in its vast coal deposits which extend across the eastern part of the State. Plans for developing this coal by strip mining have generated considerable controversy. There are two points of view: First, the economic interests; and, second, those who are concerned about the environment.

I do not want to see eastern Montana irreparably scarred by unsightly strip mines which cannot be restored to their original state. This is too much to ask in the name of economic development. We must have a strong set of rules and regulations, state and Federal, which would require the reclaiming of all mined lands if it is demonstrated that the land cannot be reclaimed, then strip mining should be prohibited.

In area of particular concern to me is when the mineral rights are held by the developer and the surface rights are held by different persons for purposes such as farming and ranching. The farmer, and ranchers should not be asked to stand by while the surface of their lands is torn apart. Monetary compensation is not the answer. Some means must be found to make certain that these people are given equal consideration and that both rights are recognized. Adequate protection in this area will undoubtedly require legislative action by the States under their eminent domain laws. The Department of the Interior must also provide these guarantees in the management of our public lands.

In some parts of eastern Montana, such as in the vicinity of Colstrip, the title to subsurface and surface rights are owned by the same party. Strip mining would not disrupt any other activity. The one thing that must be required in these instances is proper reclamation of the land for the future.

I stand ready to assist and support in the U.S. Senate in bringing about a strong workable program of environmental protection through legislation and appropriate studies and inventories of our mineral resources.

COMMITTEE MEETINGS DURING SENATE SESSION

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Subcommittee on Public Lands of the Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs; the Subcommittee on Environment of the Committee on Commerce; and the Committee on Finance be authorized to meet during the session of the Senate today.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered. Does the Senator from Pennsylvania seek recognition?

THE DIKES OF NORTH VIETNAM

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. President, as the time of the annual flooding in North Vietnam approaches, a great deal of manpower is required by them to man their dikes and irrigation systems. This, of course, detracts from the amount of manpower they are able to make available for their various offensives or attempts at offensives.

Naturally, the propaganda from Hanoi at this time has to be an attempt to put the blame on the United States for an alleged borbing of the dikes. This is an enemy lie, Mr. President. There is no intent, there is no order; there is, in fact, a contrary prohibition against the bombing of the dikes.

As the President has made clear, the United States, if it wished to do so—it would be a horrendors thing to do and will not be done—could turn North Vietnam into a lake—in less than a week. In all the years of this wax restraint has been practiced. It has not been done; it is not being done. Any allegation that it is being done is exactly the propaganda which Hanoi wants to foment in this country; because, at all costs, Hanoi wants to generate as much manpower as it can to drive South Vietnam into the sea and to force the United States into disagreeable and, if necessary, dishonorable actions in South Vietnam. That is all that the dikes are about.

I recognize Communist propaganda, whether it originates in Stockholm or Paris or the United States. These dams are not being bombed. There is an order by the President that they shall not be. When Hanoi establishes a SAM missile site or other military objective near the dikes, it is Hanoi which takes the risk that some accidental damage will be done to the dikes. There have been 12 such instances, none of which has been major. We are going to continue to hear all this business about stopping bombing the dikes. I gather that at the previous convention, recently held, most of the issues raised by the delegates seemed to indicate that they were against lettuce and for dikes. Well, that is about as irrelevant and extrantous as a political convention can be; and to carry that politics on the floor of the Senate is clearly irrelevant and extraneous.

I simply make this point to indicate that it is about time we depated the genuine issues which affect the United States in foreign policy and in domestic policy and stop this extraneous and inane nonsense whereby Americans allege that the American Government is doing what an American President has forbidden to be done and which is not being done.

ORDER OF BUSINESS

The legislative clerk read as follows: A bill (H.R. 12652) to extend the life of this Commission on Civil Rights, to expand the jurisdiction of the Commission to include discrimination because of sex, to authorize appropriations for the Commission, and for other purposes.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the present. consideration of the bill?

LEGISLATIVE HISTORY OF TITLE II OF H.R. 12652

Mr. ERVIN. Mr. President, title II of H.R. 12652 is identical to S. 1438 which was approved by the Senate by unanimous consent last December. Its provisions are designed to protect the constitutional rights of employees of the executive branch and to prevent unwarranted governmental invasions of their privacy. I proposed the addition of this title to the House bill to extend the life of the Civil Rights Commission to afford the Senate another chance to express its desire to protect the privacy of millions of citizens who now work for the Government or who may apply to work for it.

The December vote was not the first time the Senate expressed itself on this issue and sent to the House this measure containing privacy guarantees.

I introduced this bill in 1966 in the 89th Congress. Hearings were conducted and staff studies were made on the problems. In the 90th Congress I reintroduced the bill with 54 cosponsors, and it was unanimously and favorably reported by the Committee on the Judiciary as S. 1035. On September 13, 1967, the Senate approved it by an impressive vote of 79 to 4, a vote that totaled 90 to 4 by the time absentees were recorded. The bill was then referred to the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee which did not report on it in the 90th Congress.

August 4, 1972 Approved For Release 2005/08/03: CIA-RDP81-00818R000100050022-5

In the 91st Congress, I reintroduced the identical bill as S. 782 with 54 cosponsors. Again the subcommittee considered it, held hearings, conducted investigations, and reported the bill unanimously. The Judiciary Committee repeated their support for the bill and again recommended that the bill be enacted.

True to the sentiments of their constituents and to the extensive editorial support for this privacy bill, Members of the Senate again approved the measure, this time by unanimous consent. The bill was again sent to the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee whose subcommittee conducted some hearings. I appeared before that subcommittee and reported on the complaints and findings in the Constitutional Rights Subcommittee. No further action was taken by the House committee in that Congress.

In 1971, for the third time, I introduced the employee "bill of rights" as S. 1438, with 50 cosponsors.

For the third time, the subcommittee and the Committee on the Judiciary unanimously recommended that it be enacted. And by unanimous consent, the Senate approved this measure for the third time. For the third Congress, the House has not acted.

There has been widespread support for this measure for many years.

I believe Americans today fear for their privacy and their constitutional freedoms. This bill will provide some minimum statutory guarantees for millions of citizens who work for the executive branch of the Federal Government or who may apply to work for it.

The amendments were agreed to.

The amendments were ordered to be engrossed and the bill to be read a third time.

The bill was read the third time, and passed.

Mr. ROBERT C. BYRD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the Record an excerpt from the report (No. 92–1006), explaining the purposes of the measure.

There being no objection, the excerpt was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

AMENDMENTS

1. Amendment No. 1 provides that Section 106, lines 11 through 15, page 3, be deleted and the following inserted in lieu thereof: Sec. 106. For the purposes of carrying out

SEC. 106. For the purposes of carrying out this Act, there is authorized to be appropriated for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1973, the sum of $5.5 million, and for each fiscal year thereafter through June 30, 1978, the sum of $7.0 million.

The amendment to Section 106 of the bill reduces the amounts of appropriations authorized for the Commission in fiscal years 1973 through 1978, as provided in the House bill.

2. Amendment No. 2 adds Title II to the bill, which incorporates the provisions of S.

1438, a bill approved by the Committee in the First Session as an Act to protect the civilian employees of the executive branch of the United States Government in the enjoyment of their constitutional rights and to prevent unwarranted governmental invasions of their privacy.

TITLE I-LEGISLATIVE HISTORY

President Nixon in his State of the Union message of January 20, 1972, called for a five-year extension of the Civil Rights Commission and the expansion of its jurisdiction to include discrimination based on sex.

The Commission then drafted its proposals which were introduced in the House (H.R. 12652) on January 26, 1972, and in the Senate (S. 3121) on February 3, 1972. The bills were identical, calling for an extension of the Commission for five years, an expansion of its jurisdiction to include sex discrimination, and an open-ended appropriation authorization.

Subcommittee No. 5 of the House Judiciary Committee held hearings on H.R. 12652 on February 24, 1972. At the conclusion of the hearings, the subcommittee replaced the open-ended authorization with an authorization ceiling of $6.5 million for fiscal year 73 and $8.5 million for fiscal years 74-78. The bill as amended was passed by the House of Representatives on May 1, 1972.

S. 3121 and H.R. 12652 were referred to the Senate Judiciary Committee. The Subcommittee on Constitutional Rights held hearings on the bills on June 16, 1972. Testimony from the Commission was received in support of H.R. 12652. Also testifying in support of the bill was the national director of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. Statements of support were submitted by three Senators, The Women's Equity Action League, The League of Women Voters of the United States, The Leadership Conference on Civil Rights. The Duluth Business and Professional Women's Club, and the Pennsylvania Commission on the Status of Women. No testimony or statements were received in opposition to the bill. The aforementioned communications can be found in the printed text of the hearings. The bill as amended was reported by the subcommittee by a divided vote.

TITLE AS AMENDED

Title I has three primary purposes, and three secondary ones.

Section 4 provides that the Commission will make its final report to the President and to the Congress by June 30, 1978, rather than January 31, 1973. This, in effect, extends the life of the Commission for five years and five months.

Section 3 expands the jurisdiction of the Commission to include discrimination based on sex. At present, the Commission's jurisdiction is limited to investigating denials of equal protection based on race, color, religion, or national origin.

Section 6 as amended provides a ceiling on appropriations of $5.5 million for fiscal year 73, and $7.0 million for the four succeeding fiscal years. The bill as originally introduced contained an open-ended authorization for "such sums as are necessary to carry out the provisions of this Act." The bill was amended in the House, however, to provide a ceiling of $6.5 million in fiscal year 73 and $8.5 million in the four succeeding fiscal years. The amended provision thus represents a reduction in the authorization approved by the House of $1 million in fiscal year 73 and $1.5 million in each of the succeeding four fiscal years.

Sections 1, 2, and 5 of the bill provide for increased compensation for witnesses, commissioners, and consultants, respectively. Witnesses will be paid at the rate paid witnesses in federal courts. Commissioners will be compensated at the rate of level IV of the Federal Executive Salary Schedule for each day spent in the work of the Commission, and consultants will be paid at a rate not to exceed the daily rate paid a GS-15. These provisions are comparable to those now in effect in other government agencies.

STATEMENT

The Commission on Civil Rights was created in 1957 as an independent fact-finding agency with a two-year life span. Its power was limited to conducting studies and making recommendations to the President and Congress concerning denials of equal protection based on race, color, religion, and national origin.

The Commission has since been extended five times by the Congress. Its staff and program have expanded, and its appropriation authorization has steadily climbed to its present level of $4.0 million for fiscal year 1972.

In the early years of its existence, the Commission concerned itself largely with the problems facing black Americans. Recently, however, it has turned its attention to other minority groups, most notably Indians and Mexican Americans. More than 60% of its recommendations have been enacted into law.

The Committee is of the view that there is a continuing need for the Commission to appraise the policies of the federal government with respect to civil rights and to serve as a reliable source of information for future legislative proposals.

The Committee also favors the inclusion of sex discrimination as a logical expansion of the Commission's jurisdiction. The Commission is already empowered to investigate denials of equal protection on other grounds, and has a working structure designed to cope with such problems. The Committee hopes, however, that the Commission's assumption of new jurisdiction will not signify a slackening of the Commission's efforts to deal with problems of neglected smaller minorities. The Committee furthermore hopes that particular attention will be given to the special problems of minority women when the Commission turns its attention to the problems of sex discrimination in general. In short, the grant of additional jurisdiction should not be allowed to cloud the other important concerns of the Commission.

Finally, the Committee favors the fiscal limits of $5.5 million in fiscal year 73 and $7.0 million in the succeeding four fiscal years as a more realistic estimate of the Commission's costs than those contained in the House bill. The authorization of the Commission for fiscal year 72 was $4.0 million. The limit of $5.5 million in fiscal year 73 represents a $7.5% increase over fiscal year 72; the $7.0 million, a 75% increase over fiscal year 72. These authorizations represent, the Committee feels, amounts reasonably calculated to allow the Commission to carry out its responsibilities.

The Committee has already requested an increase in the appropriations for fiscal year 73 to $4.8 million without the new jurisdiction to cover sex discrimination. The authorization called for in the Committee amendment provides $.7 million for fiscal year 1973 in addition to this request to allow the Commission to begin its new work in the area of sex discrimination and a contemplated project on Asian-Americans. The $7.0 million figure for fiscal years 74 through 78 makes it possible for the Commission to expand its efforts in the area of sex discrimination and allows for future cost increases to its total program.

COSTS

In accordance with Section 252 of the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1970, the Committee estimates the costs of H.R. 12652, as amended, in fiscal year 1973 will be $1.5 million more than the appropriation of $4.0 million already authorized. If the Civil Rights Commission is extended until December 31, 1978, as provided by the bill, the annual cost is estimated to be $7.0 million for each of the fiscal years 1974 through

The printed hearings contain a detailed projection made by the Commission of its program for the next five years and its estimated costs.

TIVLE II—PROTECTING PRIVACY AND THE RIGHTS OF FEDERAL INCOME

Title II is identical to the provisions of S. 1438 which was approved by the Committee without amendment on December 6, 1971, and which was passed by the Senate by manimous consent on December 8. It is also identical to S. 782 of the 91st Congress unanimously reported by the Committee and unantmously approved by the Senate. This title is designed to protect civilian employees of the executive branch of the United States Government in the enjoyment of their constitutional rights and to prevent unwarranted governmental invasions of their privacy.

The language of the Committee report on the provisions of S. 1438 is reprinted below as adopted by the Committee.

The references in the report on Title II are to the numbered provisions of S. 1438 as formerly approved by the Committee.

The section references in the legislative analysis of Title II accord with the numbered section of the parent bill.

PURPOSE

The purpose of Title II is to prohibit indiscriminate executive branch requirements that employees and, in certain instances, applicants for Government employment disclose their race, religion, or national origin; attend Government-sponsored meetings and lecturers or participate in outside activities unrelated to their employment; report on their outside activities or undertakings unrelated to their work; submit to questioning about their religion, personal relationships or sexual attitudes through interviews, psychological tests, or polygraphs; support political candidates or attend political meetings. The bill would make it illegal to coerce an employee to buy bonds or make charitable contributions. It prohibits officials from requiring him to disclose his own personal assets, liabilities, or expenditures, or those of any member of his family unless, in the case of certain specified employees, items would tend to show a conflict of interest. It would provide a right to have a counsel or other person present, if the employee wishes, at an interview which may lead to disciplinary proceedings. It would accord the right to a civil action in a Federal court for violation or threatened violation of the act, and it would establish a Board on Employees' Rights to receive and conduct hearings on complaints of violation of the act and to determine and administer remedies and pen-

STATEMENT

The committee has found, a threefold need for this legislation. The first is the immediate need to establish a statutory basis for the preservation of certain rights and liberties of those who work for government now and those who will work for it in the future. The bill, therefore, not only remedies problems of today but looks to the future, in recognition of the almost certain enlargement of the scope of Federal activity and the continuing rise in the number of Americans employed by their Federal Government or serving it in some capacity.

Second, the bill meets the Federal Government's need to attract the best qualified employees and to retain them. As the former Chairman of the Civil Service Commission, Robert Ramspeck, testified:

"Today, the Federal Government affects the lives of every human being in the United States. Therefore, we need better people today, better qualified people, more dedicated people, in Federal service than we ever needed before. And we cannot get them if you are going to deal with them on the basis of suspicion, and delve into their private lives, because if there is anything the average American cherishes, it is his right of freedom of action, and his right to privacy. So I think this bill is hitting at an evil that has grown up, maybe not intended, but which is hurting the ability of the Federal Government to acquire the type of personnel that we must have in the career service."

Third is the growing need for the beneficial influence which such a statute would provide in view of the present impact of l'ederal policies, regulations and practices on those of State and local government and of private business and industry. An example of the interest demonstrated by governmental and private employers is the following comment by Allan J. Graham, secretary of the Civil Service Commission of the city of New York:

"It is my opinion, based on over 25 years of former Government service, including some years in a fairly high managerial capacity, that your bill, if enacted into law, will be a major step to stem the tide of "Big Brotherism," which constitutes a very real threat to our American way of life.

"In my present position as secretary of the Civil Service Commission of the city of New York, I have taken steps to propose the inclusion of several of the concepts of your bill into the rules and regulations of the city civil service commission."

Passage of the bill will signify congressional recognition of the threats to individual privacy posed by an advanced technology and by increasingly more complex organizations. Illustrating these trends is the greatly expanded use of computers and governmental and private development of vast systems for the efficient gathering of information and for data storage and retrieval. While Government enjoys the benefit of these developments there is at the same time an urgent need for defining the areas of individual liberty and privacy which should be exempt from the unwarranted instrusions facilitated by scientific techniques.

As Prof. Charles Reich of Yale Law School has stated, this bill "would be a significant step forward in defining the right of privacy today."

"One of the most important tasks which faces the Congress and State legislatures in the next decade is the protection of the citizen against invasion of privacy," states Prof. Stanley Anderson of the University of California, Santa Barbara. "No citizens," in his opinion, "are in more immediate danger of incursion into private affeirs than Government employees. When enacted the bill will provide a bulwark of protection against such incursions."

The bill is based on several premises which the subcommittee investigation has proved valid for purposes of enacting this legislation. The first is that civil servants do not surrender the basic rights and liberties which are their due as citizens under the Constitution of the United States by their action in accepting Government employment. Chief among these constitutional protections is the first amendment, which protects the employee to privacy in his thoughts, beliefs and attitudes, to silence in his action and participation or his inaction and nonparticipation in community life and civic affairs. This principle is the essence of constitutional liberty in a free society.

The constitutional focus of the bill was emphasized by Senator Ervin in the following terms when he introduced S. 1035 on February 21, 1967:

"If this bill is to have any meaning for those it affects, or serve as a precedent for those who seek guidelines in those matters, its purpose must be phrased in constitutional terms. Otherwise its goals will be lost.

"We must have as our point of reference the constitutional principles which guide every official act of our Federal Government

I believe that the Constitution, as it was drafted and as it has been implemented, embodies a view of the citizen as possessed of an inherent dignity and as enjoying certain basic liberties. Many current practices of Government affecting employees are unconstitutional; they violate not only the letter but the very spirit of the Constitution.

"I introduced this bill originally because I believe that, to the extent it has permited or authorized unwarranted invasion of employee privacy and unreasonable restrictions on their liberty, the Federal Government has neglected its constitutional duty where its own employees are concerned, and it has failed in its role as the model employer for the Nation.

"Second, although it is a question of some dispute, I hold that Congress has a duty under the Constitution not only to consider the constitutionality of the laws it enacts, but to assure as far as possible that those in the executive branch responsible for administering the laws adhere to constitutional standards in their programs, policies, and administrative techniques."

The committee believes that it is time for Congress to forsake its reluctance to tell the executive branch how to treat its employees. When so many American citizens are subject to unfair treatment, to being unreasonably coerced or required without warrant to surrender their liberty, their privacy, or their freedom to act or not to act, to reveal or not to reveal information about themselves and their private thoughts and actions, then Congress has a duty to call a statutory halt to such practices. It has a duty to remind the executive branch that even though it might have to expend a little more time and effort to obtain some favored policy goal, the techniques and tools must be reasonable and fair.

Each section of the bill is based on evidence from many nundreds of cases and complaints showing that generally in the Federal service, as in any similar organizational situation, a request from a superior is equivalent to a command. This evidence refutes the argument that an employee's response to a superior's request for information or action is a voluntary response, and that an employee "consents" to an invasion of his privacy or the curtailment of his liberty. Where his employment opportunities are at stake. where there is present the economic coercion to submit to questionable practices which are contrary to our constitutional values, then the presence of consent or voluntarism may be open to serious doubt. For this reason the bill makes it illegal for officials to "request" as well as to "require" an employee to submit to certain inquiries or practices or to take certain actions.

Each section of the bill reflects a balancing of the interests involved: The interest of the Government in attracting the best qualified individuals to its service; and its interest in pursuing laudable goals such as protecting the national security, promoting equal employment opportunities, assuring mental health, or conducting successful bond-selling campaigns. There is, however, also the interest of the individual in protection of his rights and liberties as a private citizen. When he becomes an employee of his Government, he has a right to expect that the policies and practices applicable to him will reflect the best values of his society.

The balance of interests achieved assures him this right. While it places no absolute prohibition on Government inquiries, the bill does assure that restrictions on his rights and liberties as a Government employee are reasonable ones.

As Senator Bible stated:

"There is a line between what is Federal business and what is personal business, and Congress must draw that line. The right of privacy must be spelled out." The weight of evidence, as Senator Fong has said: "points to the fact that the in-vasions of privacy under threats and coercion and economic intimidation are rampant in our Federal civil service system today. The degree of privacy in the lives of our civil servants is small enough as it is, and it is still shrinking with further advances in technical know-how. That these citizens are being forced by economic coercion to sur-render this precious liberty in order to obtain and hold jobs is an invasion of privacy which should disturb every American, I, therefore, strongly believe that congressional action to protect our civil servants is long overdue."

The national president of the National Association of Internal Revenue Employees, Vincent Connery, told the subcommittee of this proposal in the 89th Congress: "Senate bill 3779 is soundly conceived and perfectly timed. It appears on the legislative scene during a season of public employee unrest, and a period of rapidly accelerating demand among Federal employees for truly first-class citizenship. For the first time within my memory, at least, a proposed bill holds out the serious hope of attaining such citizenship. S. 3779, therefore, amply deserves the fullest support of all employee organiza-tions, both public and private, federation affiliated, and independent alike."

Similar statements endorsing the broad purpose of the bill were made by many others, including the following witnesses:

John F. Griner, national president, American Federation of Government Employees. E. C. Hallbeck, national president, United Federation of Postal Clerks.

Jerome Keating, president, National Association of Letter Carriers.

Kenneth T. Lyons, national president, National Association of Government Employees. John A. McCart, operations director, Government Employees Council of AFL-CIO.
